

TADKU GETS A NEW COLOUR

There are some little friends in this garden. Can you point out the ones that cannot fly?

Tadku the beetle lived in a beautiful garden where there were many other insects. All the other insects made fun of Tadku, because his was such a dull colour. Poor Tadku never responded to this teasing. One day, the butterflies in the garden teased him so much that he decided to fly away from there.

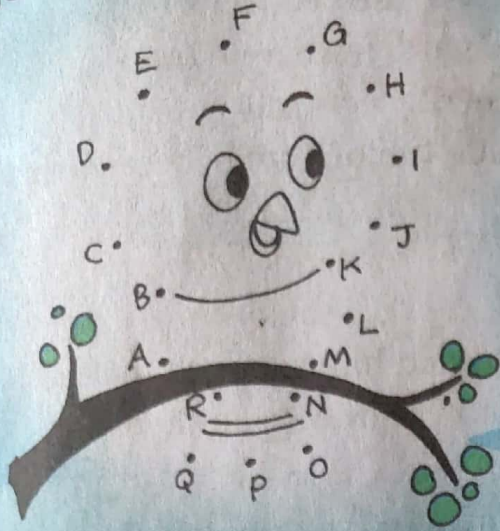

Tadku flew for so long that soon he lost his way, and reached a place full of trees. It was a forbidden land of trees, where only beautiful tree fairies lived. When Tadku looked around, he only saw trees, and no one else was anywhere around. Tadku was scared, and he started to cry. Suddenly, he heard a small voice, "Hey, little beetle, why are you crying?"

The voice belonged to a tree fairy, dressed in a green gown. She had a brown crown on her head.

"I am Tadku, and I have lost my way," said Tadku looking at the beautiful tree fairy in admiration.

Can you touch the biggest insect in this garden?

Someone is hiding here. To see who it is, join the dots from A to R.

"Would you like to stay here?" asked the fairy. "Isn't this the forbidden land of trees? Why are you inviting me to stay?" "We are bored here. It would be nice to have a new friend," said the fairy smiling.

"Hmm. But if I have to stay here, you have to grant me a wish."

"A wish? Ask for it," said the fairy.

"I look as dull as a faded rock. Can you add some colour to my body?" requested Tadku.

"Hey, friends, let's sprinkle some colour on our new friend," said the fairy calling out to her fairy friends.

In an instant, Tadku got a fluorescent green and brown colour. "Woo Hoo!" said Tadku admiring his new look. From then on, he stayed happily in his new home.

These are tree fairies. One among them is different from the others. Can you find her?
